Rate of unemployment in Hungary and Great Britain

As the line graph above depicts, the rate of unemployment in Hungary shows worse tendencies than Great Britain's data.

Between 2005 and 2006 the number of the unemployed has risen sharply in Hungary while in Great Britain it has increased. Since then we can experience a sequential increase in Hungary. For two years the tendency was showing better results, but between 2005 and 2013 the rate of unemployment tripled.

In case of Great Britain the trends are mostly similar and the graph shows two drops in the given period of time, one in 2006 and the other in 2008. After the financial crisis of 2008 a lot of people lost their jobs and a great number of businesses went bust. Hungary was also influenced by the credit crunch, as a result of which a lot of people couldn't pay their monthly instalments and had to sell their homes. Great Britain, where the general standard of living is higher and the annual GDP growth is bigger, suffered less than Hungary. In Hungary, where the effects of the economic downturn could be felt longer, needed more time to recover.

Luckily, since 2013 the rate of unemployment has been decreasing and analysts are positive that this tendency will continue.

Dear Mr Seville,

Thank you for writing us concerning the undelivered products. Our company's top priority is to establish and maintain a long lasting relationship with our clients. We sincerely apologize for the inconvenience caused.

Delays occur rarely at our company, but our online system, which handle the orders, broke down. After that it showed that your order was delivered and completed.

We would like to guarantee that the sunglasses will arrive next Friday the latest if it is suitable for you. As an apology, we can offer you a free delivery of goods to your company. Despite the delay, we are looking forward to more orders.

Yours sincerely,
Jane Brown
